Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 22 Oct 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A chilly start, then largely dry and bright on Friday.

Today:
After a dry, bright and chilly start, a band of showers will quickly move southwards during the morning. Becoming largely dry with bright or sunny spells in the afternoon. Windy, especially at first, although gradually easing throughout the day. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Overnight will be dry with clear spells for many. It will turn chilly, especially in prone rural spots, where a touch of ground frost is possible by dawn. Light winds. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Saturday:
A largely dry and bright day for many, after another chilly start. However, it will turn increasingly cloudy and windy, with rain arriving from the west later in the day. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Early rain clearing eastwards on Sunday, followed by sunshine and showers. Further scattered showers Monday. Largely dry and bright on Tuesday, although turning increasingly cloudy with rain arriving later. Milder.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.